Pair defend Knoblock contract

Grear and Altman blast consultant plan criticism

Two of the three Belle Glade city commissioners who decided last week to retain resigned City Manager George Knoblock as a part-time consultant, lashed out Wednesday at criticism of their action.

Both Mayor William Grear and Commissioner Tom Altman said they couldn't understand why Commissioners Aubrey Farmer and Kenneth Harris, both absent at the June 30 special session, had blasted their decision.

Grear and Altman, along with Commissioner Ralph Kirk, directed attorney John Baker during the special meeting to draw up a contract with Knoblock which would allow Knoblock to be paid an hourly wage based on his salary for working on several specific projects.

Grear and Altman said they hadn't personally discussed the matter with Farmer and Harris. They criticized remarks to the other two were quoted as making in two news stories, however. Farmer, who was quoted as saying he "would have fought a losing battle" had he attended the special meeting, reportedly said the action was "outrageous."

Harris was quoted as saying he would not vote for the contract, "even if it means shutting the city down."

"I've said all along, 'Mayor Grear said, 'we have so many major projects underway. I can't see us sitting around waiting until we can hire a new city manager."

"It's going to be at least two or three months," he said, before we can even get any applications. Those who criticize won't be under fire. It'll be me getting the heat. I am not going to sit here and see us fall behind."

Altman said he, "can't understand the over-reaction. I've been in the middle of the paper flow and I know what it's like." City Finance Director Frank Anderson (who's the acting city manager) is overworked as it is with his finance department. There is no way Frank and his staff can handle all the work."

Altman said the plan to use Knoblock as a consultant may not work, "but let's live it a try. I'm open-minded. If they (Farmer and Harris) can come up with a reason not to go through with this, I'll be willing to listen but so far, they haven't come up with any reason at all."

The city's youngest commissioner said one of the major projects Knoblock is to oversee is the pending operation permit for the city sewage treatment plant.

The application for the permit, which would remove the moratorium on building which has existed since 1972, has been filed and tests are not underway by the Palm Beach County Health Department.

"George had built up a rapport with representatives of the health department," Altman said, "and that's important. If the permit alone isn't worth paying him (Knoblock) $11 an hour, I don't know what is. That's cheap at the price."

Altman and Grear said Knoblock might work two or three days a week or two or three days a month. Both stressed he would not be working 40 hours.

Grear said one of the reasons he wanted to keep Knoblock on a consultant basis was that Frank Anderson, who was acting city manager last year after the commission requested and received the resignation of William Mallory, and Police Chief Charles Goodlett,

Temperature's up, business is down

by Jackie Bridges

Summertime, and the living is easy...but not quite too easy for everyone, was the indication of a spot check of businesses around Belle Glade.

Mrs. Grant Averill, owner of Averill's Studio, for example, said that they are very busy this summer and they stay busy except during September and October, which are their slow months. Because of summer events such as weddings and parties, many customers are coming in to Averill's (which is closed on Wednesdays during the summer) to have photographs taken or to buy cards, film or other items.

The time of year though, is not the only factor affecting business this summer. According to Thomas Brooks, an employee of White's Home and Auto Store, business has picked up a little since they moved into a new building.

The new White's location allows room for more merchandise and, with summer here, merchandise such as bicycles and sporting equipment are good sales items.

Construction of State Rd. 80 seems to be an obstruction for Triangle Bowling Lane. Harvey Lemons, owner and manager, said that business has been very slow there although bowling tournaments are held every weekend.

Road construction in front of the bowling alley makes it difficult to get in, or at least to find an opening leading to the center.

Lemons also stated that there are not as many children bowling this summer as there have been in the past, even though special rates are in effect for children. One reason for this is the decline in the number of adults customers that adults who usually bring their children with them.

Employees of Kahn's downtown and McCrory's in the Glades Plaza have also indicated that business is slow for them. This, however, is usual for the summer months.

The reservation, owned by Ron Snyder and located in the former Tom Norton Buick Building, is experiencing the same decline felt by other businesses in the area. Snyder's store opened in March and, according to him, they have had more traffic than expected since the store opened. But, as anticipated, the vacation season has slowed down the traffic.

Business at Royal's in the plaza, according to Frank Royal, assistant manager, is about the same as it has been throughout the rest of the year. There were a few slack periods before the summer, but it has leveled off. The decline in summer customers is not limited to "in town" businesses. Both Slim's and J-Mark's Fish Camps of Belle Glade have less business during the summer than during the other months, despite sum-

2 city elections set in September

Action on elections to fill a lot of five city commission seats in South Bay and Belle Glade get underway this week when candidates can begin qualifying in South Bay on Friday.

South Bay City Clerk Virginia Walker said the qualifying period will last from 8 a.m. Friday until Aug. 23 for the Sept. 7 city election.

The seats now occupied by Commissioner and Vice-Mayor O'Neal Walker and Commissioners Verma Cox and Don Tanner will be up for grabs in the 1976 election. Should all three decide to run for re-election, Tanner will be attempting to regain his seat for his second two-year term. Mrs. Cox will be trying for her third term and Walker will be trying for his second consecutive term, although he served five previous terms.

Walker first served on the commission in 1947 at the age of 22 and at 26 was the youngest mayor in the city's history.

South Bay Fourth

SOUTH BAY-Local residents gathered along the side of US 27 Sunday to help celebrate the nation's Bicentennial July Fourth. Joining in the celebration were the Glades Central High School Band, State Senator Phil Lewis who was the main speaker, a National Guard color guard, city officials, master of ceremonies Frank Teets and Milton Carpenter, who was joined in singing "God Bless America" by the crowd. If it wasn't a typical Fourth, it was a traditional Fourth, with speeches, flag-waving, singing and ice cream. There was even one girl who danced the can can in the middle of the South Bay Bicentennial sign as the band entertained the crowd.

South Bay may receive windfall taxes

SOUTH BAY-A windfall of heretofore uncollected taxes is in the offing for the city treasury in the future if a particular plan brought up at the regular City Commission meeting Tuesday night works out.

The Commission directed City Attorney Allen Everard to request Palm Beach County Property Appraiser David Reid to begin assessing all property in the city limits.

Everard had earlier told the commissioners that in his opinion the entire 440-acre section belongs inside the city limits. All maps prepared for the city in the past contain the notation that property north of the meander line which cuts the section roughly in half is not actually part of the city. Everard said the reason for the notation is that the land north of the meander line was originally under the waters of the Lake Okechobee, that the line is where the former muck dike stood. Since the area has since been drained, Everard argues the notation is not outdated

Boatcade to arrive next week

Final plans for the delayed 1976 Kissimmee Boatcade were to have been drawn up by Wednesday afternoon during a meeting of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce Port Committee.

Chamber Executive Secretary Jewel Crane said Tuesday she understood the month's delay caused by the construction of the lock of the St. Lucie Canal may reveal the expected participants from approximately 200 to an estimated 60 participants.

The boatcade will begin July 14 when a briefing will be held for the boaters in Kissimmee. The actual voyage will get under way from Kissimmee the morning of July 15 and the boats are expected to arrive in Belle Glade about 4:30 p.m.

Members of the Port Committee were to discuss Wednesday plans for feeding the boaters when they arrive. Mrs. Crane said original plans called for the port committee members to prepare a barbecue chicken dinner for that night. Because of the reduction in the estimated number of boaters, there is a possibility the meal will be catered.

The Glades Correctional Institution band is expected to perform for the meal.

The boaters will leave Belle Glade the next day on their way to Nettie's Island and will travel on to Daytona Beach the following day, all on the Intracoastal Waterway.

and the land should have long since been taxed by the city.

The commission unanimously approved a motion made by Commissioner Don Tanner to direct Everard to ask Reid why the land isn't being taxed and to request Reid to put the land on the city's tax rolls.

Part of the land north of the meander line has already been annexed into the city. All of the land, except the right of way for the North New River Canal and a road leading to the city water plant, is being used to grow sugarcane.

The commission also agreed at the request of City

Grigsby said the machine, a

He said the city would grow by approximately 30 percent by the end of the year. "For the commission to make reasonable decisions," he said, "you need accurate figures and we haven't been able to supply them." He said the machine would correct that situation.

Royal's buys Grants

A new shopping complex in the downtown area became a real possibility last week when Royals Department Stores bought the old W.T. Grant building on West Main Street.

Charles Royal, who was busy in Fort Myers this week opening a new store for the chain in that west Florida city, said definite plans are "up in the air" but several people have expressed an interest already in the building.

Royal said the former department store will be remodeled as a retail complex.

The remodeling plans include repaving the parking lot behind the building and putting on a new facade, front and rear, to make the building more attractive. Royal said. The refurbishing is also expected to improve the downtown shopping area. According to the Royal, the family-owned chain of stores will open one of four routes, but that route has not yet been decided on. More information on the new retail complex is expected within the next few weeks.

Consultant

who assisted Anderson, don't have time to keep up with the daily operation of the city along with the special projects.

"I've discussed this with Frank and Chief Goodlett," Grear said, "and they agreed they needed help."

Grear said another reason for his decision was that vacation time is here [Anderson is already taking one week off], "and I don't think it's fair for me to work straight through the summer without a vacation."

He noted that Anderson received no vacation last year because he was filling in then as acting city manager.

"I think this is going to be good for the city," Grear said. "Personalities have nothing to do with it. I believe I made the right decision and the two commissioners who voted with me made the wisest decision for the city."

Besides the operating permit for the city, Knoblock is also supposed to consult with the city on an airport grant application which will provide for development of a master plan, which in turn, is expected to yield federal and state funds for development of the city airport, such as plans to have the runways paved by 1980.

Other projects include: the city's sanitary landfill; development of a solid waste program; continuation of a 201 Facilities Planning Study; development of subdivision regulations; solving problems with water and sewer connections at Glades Correctional Institution; formulation of guidelines for special sewer and water hookups outside the city, and their fees; briefing the new city manager when one is hired and preparation of the city budget for next year.

Knoblock notified the commissioners he intends to take a vacation which began Friday and will continue through July 12 and will then be available to begin his new role as a consultant. Knoblock was hired in September 1975 and tendered his resignation June 2, effective July 2.

He was the second city manager Belle Glade lost in 14 months, following the forced resignation of Mallory.

Mrs. Anna Roberts of 249 Royal Palm Way in Belle Glade was the first to qualify Tuesday for the District 5 Palm Beach County School Board seat currently occupied by Ann McKay.

As of 3 p.m. Tuesday, the first day of qualifying for all contending offices up for reelection, Mrs. Roberts was the only person to qualify for the District 5 seat.

Mrs. Roberts is a housewife and mother of two children, all enrolled in Gladesview Elementary and Lake Shore Elementary Schools. Her husband, Joseph C. Roberts, is a teacher.

Mrs. Roberts said she has been a chairman for more than two years on the Gladesview Elementary Advisory Committee, Palm Beach County Chairman of the Emergency School Aid Act for 1973-74, a past officer of Gladesview Elementary Parent Teachers Association and representative of Gladesview Elementary Communication Skills Department to the county for 1974-75.

Mrs. Roberts said to platform, not necessarily a candidate for reelection.

"I have more emphasis on the three R's which believe are the basic fundamentals of educating the young."

"Work for every parent involvement in the schools."

"Advise the superintendent of the need for more listening post sessions."

"This way," she said, "everyone would have a voice in the improvements of our schools and stress that everyone live by their own opinions without any free whatsoever."

She also said she felt the superintendent should hold regular listening post sessions in each area of the county.

"Better working conditions between the school administration and employees, with school board policies and statutes applying to everyone."

"Establish school board policy regarding transfers which would be strictly adhered to."

She also said she would like all personnel feel like they were representatives on the board and would always be available to school personnel and other parties whenever the need arose.

"Whoever is elected for the District Five seat on the school board," she said, "I pray that the person elected will try to improve all the schools in Palm Beach County and not try to appease special groups or individuals."

city election will decide who will fill the seats now occupied by Commissioners Tom Altman and Ralph Kirk. Should both decide to run for reelection, Altman will be trying for his second term of office and Kirk will be attempting to win his fourth consecutive two-year term.

Qualifications for the two positions are the same as those in South Bay except for the qualifying fee. Belle Glade charges a $25 fee for would be candidates.

The qualifying period for the Belle Glade election begins July 16 and ends Aug. 25. The election takes place Sept. 14 and runoff, if it's needed, will be on Sept. 21.

Voters registration books for the Belle Glade election will close July 31. There will be no registration at the City Hall Annex and all voters must register at the Glades Office Building.

Children need inoculations

Parents of children entering school for the first time this fall were urged last week to be sure their children have the required shots.

"All children entering a Florida school for the first time must show proof of immunization," said Rachel Rodgers, school health coordinator for the Palm Beach County Health Department.

A complete immunization requires four doses of diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus; one dose of polio; one dose of measles and one dose of rubella.

Mumps is not a requirement," Miss Rodgers said, "but it is strongly recommended." To obtain these immunizations and proper documents required for school, parents were advised to contact their private physicians or local health department now, she urged, to ensure enrollment into school and good health.

June brings rain deficit

Heavy rains in May brought the Glades to within an inch of having an average rainfall for the year for the first time in years but an unusually dry June left the area with almost an inch deficit for the first six months of 1978.

While there was an average rainfall of 9.47 inches in June over the past 62 years, last month only brought 4.06 inches of precipitation, leaving a deficit of a month of 5.06 inches for the month and 5.80 inches less than average for the year.

G.R. Wilcoxson of the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade reported the 1976 deficit brought the 53-year average down to 9.18 inches.

Excessive paperwork, better known in more astute circles as "red tape," is not a malady restricted exclusively to governmental endeavors. It is prevalent in our larger corporations also. This probably accounts for the exorbitant prices these people charge for their commodities to some degree.

I have first hand knowledge of this, I became a victim of the "red tape" syndrome one summer.

I was employed as a clerk for the largest manufacturer of ketchup bottle caps in the world. And, since they were extremely impressed with their magnificence, they too believed in paperwork.

The situation was this. In the course of my duties I had discovered that the implement normally utilized for dampening the stickum on envelopes for the purpose of sealing same was grossly inefficient. A much more practical tool was a slightly wet tongue. I, therefore, set about licking the envelopes. This saved untold dollars in water and man-hours by using my own natural resources.

This new "procedure" worked excellently until I happened to cut my tongue on the edge of the envelope flap one day. I jokingly mentioned to my superior that I had had an accident but did not feel it would curtail my effectiveness in the performance of my duties.

The next morning I found a form (Number 27165-A) which, when filled out, requested another form (Number 364192-BA), an accident report form. A few days later I received form number 364192-BA. It was a monstrosity that asked questions that had absolutely nothing to do with the accident. It asked for my age, sex, religion, marital status, party affiliation, amount of indebtedness, mother's occupation and hundreds of similarly non-applicable questions. Finally the last question said "State nature of injury and your activities at the time of that injury and list the damages, if any, that said injury has caused you."

I replied,

"I was licking an envelope and the edge of the flap cut that part of my anatomy causing great blood loss, an inability to talk for ten minutes and a total loss of want of salted foods or acidic drinks."

I sent the form back to the attention of the Safety Director's office.

Two weeks later I received an inquiry form number 636413-1. It asked: "As you were licking the envelope, in which manner were you doing it?"

I replied, "I held the envelope tightly in both hands and dragged the thing across my tongue. Since I faced to the north I am positive I licked in a east to west direction, resulting in the laceration of my tongue."

A few weeks later I received another form number 436810 which asked simply "Is east to west, in laymen's terms, right to left or left to right?"

A full month later I received a letter from the Director of Employee Safety. It was terse to say the least. "In the future," it said, "lick your envelopes in an up and down motion rather than across your tongue and accidents such as this will be less likely to occur."

There you have it. It took two months, five pieces of paper and at least twenty people to tell me how, lick my envelopes correctly. And, at the end of that period of time, the price of Ketchup bottle caps went up 30 per cent.

To the rescue!

President Ford called it right when he said Americans found "great satisfaction" that a group of Israelis were able to celebrate their own Independence Day Sunday.

It was enough to make a body stand up and cheer when the word came through about the commando raid on Uganda that freed the 103 hostages being held in that African country with the apparent help of Idi Amin's army.

We don't mean cheer for a raid on a foreign sovereign nation or for the loss of life. In themselves, neither of those acts are exactly cheerful.

But it is nice to know that at least one country in the world (maybe the only one) still has the intelligence to realize there is only one effective answer to terrorism, kidnapping and hijacking...and the gumption to give that answer.

If everybody who ever gave a thought to applying pressure to private individuals and nations were absolutely convinced that their action would only bring the hostility of every person in the world death if they were caught and nowhere in the world to find sanctuary, those crimes would disappear.

It just doesn't make sense to kidnap someone when you know you're not going to get a payoff, that hostages don't bring any reward but the forfeiture of your own life.

We grieve for the three hostages and the commando who died in Saturday night's raid on Entebbe Airport but for the rest...the seven hijackers and Idi Amin sowed the wind and reaped an Israeli whirlwind.

Death penalty

While it may be nothing to exult about, the U.S. Supreme Court can be given credit for their action last week in confirming the death penalty.

Taking the life of another human being should never be celebrated but there are times when it's necessary. The Florida Legislature saw it; law enforcement officers and judges across the nation always knew it and a majority of the American people became convinced of it over the last ten years.

A Gallup poll in 1966 indicated a minority of only 42 per cent of the Americans favored using the death penalty to punish criminals. Another poll last month showed 65 per cent favored the use of death as punishment.

When one considers that over that same period of time, murders in the United States jumped from fewer than 8,000 per year to more than 21,000 last year, it isn't too hard to understand why.

With statistics like that staring them in the face, it became awfully difficult for opponents of capital punishment to declare death is no deterrent.

Besides, as has been pointed out many times in recent years, if death is no deterrent to crime, why should people like convicted murderers Charles W. Profit be trying so hard to have the death penalty declared unconstitutional.

Some people call the death penalty barbaric, some call it immoral, some call it sinful and some call it unethical. Those are moot points but it is effective.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

How about that, sports fans. What's that a Fourth to remember? What with the fireworks displays in Pahokee and the get-together in South Bay, there was some competition for the tall ships in New York.

The weather was sunny and hot enough to make you appreciate the beach or air conditioning and I noticed there were all sorts of barbecues planned around town and there were even some watermelons in evidence.

Only think I didn't see that would have made a complete old-fashioned Fourth of July was someone under a shade tree hand-cranking ice cream. I might have been too busy noticing all the flags and other things around to have noticed the ice cream.

But it was more than your average typical July Fourth. Matter of fact this was literally one in a hundred.

And that, seemed to be what O'Neal Walker was trying to say during the celebration on the side of the road where South Bay has its Bicentennial Greeting Card.

O'Neal made the comment that with the Fourth over with, it might mean, "we don't have to put up with Mary Waters and the Bicentennial Committee for another hundred years."

But still, he said, O'Neal might come down on you with both feet. For those who don't know, Esther is O'Neal's wife and she was working hand-in-glove with Mary on the city's Bicentennial program.

Esther was also the one who came in the office last Friday and informed me in no uncertain terms her name was Esther Walker and not Esther O'Neal. That was about the time I realized I'd called her Esther O'Neal in a story about the Bicentennial last week.

I mean, what can you say? Besides pleading temporary insanity, I mean. Besides, I haven't been able to claim that lately. It seems to be a permanent situation.

Like the time last week I pulled some dumb stunt and Wray told me it was a sign of encroaching senility and I could only answer, "What encroaching?"

Nowadays, I'm happy to be referred to as temporarily sane; maybe that's why I enjoyed the Fourth so much. If the dose of the Bicentennial is what it takes to make someone else realize that while we may not have a perfect system in America, it beats the heck out of whatever comes in second best, maybe we ought to have a Bicentennial every year.

Seems I heard or read where someone called it an orgy of self-congratulations.

Call it what you want but I think those guys came up with something pretty wonderful a couple of centuries ago. And sometimes, when the skepticism can be forced down to a normal level, I think old Lady Liberty is going around to celebrate a Tricentennial.

Most of us probably don't appreciate that liberty but over the weekend I was reminded of a friend I knew in Jacksonville called John Fatu.

John hailed from the Kingdom of Tonga in the South Pacific and he was going to be the fourth Tongan ever to receive a college education. The first three were the late queen, the current king and the king's brother, the prime minister.

I really got to know John when we were both in a political science class and he read a paper we had all been assigned to do on the meaning of liberty.

John described liberty by telling what it was to him in a place where the king is the only person allowed to own property, the king holds absolute control over the only newspaper and the only radio station around and where the legislature operates only at the king's whim.

John was going to return to the island with about as much going for him as any commoner could ask for...but he didn't want to go. He was returning with status, a chance for a large income, compared to the term in Tonga, almost nothing. He was going to be a servant and probably just about anything he wanted.

Anything except the right to leave. That, thinking refused to give. I know for a fact John tried just about everything but when his student's visa ran out, he was forced to return.

John Fatu was a living example of what liberty isn't.

And that's where I think I really learned the meaning of the word.

Letters to the editor

July Fourth, 1976

Dear Sir:

On Memorial Day I was disturbed by the fact that I was flying in Belle Glade. I dismissed my thoughts since it was a parade day and flies along the side of the Bicentennial celebration Christian flag every day here at the Christian Church.

Perhaps it is not a day to be "patriotic," although it was a real disappointment to not even see the flag up at the Veterans of Foreign Wars building on he day set aside to remember those who gave their lives for that dear flag and the country for which it stands.

What happened to our allegiance?

IT IS TIME AMERICA WAKE UP!

I write this in hopes that it will be printed and that apathy will be wiped from our hearts before it is too late.

OLD GLORY is a symbol of our freedom and we're not liked yet? Why don't we fly it?

Today, Sunday, July Fourth, 1976, I was appalled as I drove the kids home from church. Again I saw those empty flag poles. But it did thrill my heart to see "our nation's and Bicentennial flag" flying from the pole at the fire station, across the street at a place of business, and on Main Street and Ave. "E" at that business.

BUT, OH LORD, WHAT A SHOCK not to see it at McDonald Park or the United States Post Office. No, it wasn't flying at the "Fraternal Organizations," either.

Anyone who knows me knows I have a heart to complain because we're not flying our country's stars and stripes along the side of the Bicentennial Christian flag every day here at the Christian Church.

America, America, Where are you headed? Repent! She agreed, went to her room and let's get this country back where it ought to be!

Someone Could Steal Your Money

By GERALD LEWIS

Comptroller of Florida

Recently a Miami woman was approached by a man who told her he had just found $10,000 and was willing to share it with her. She demanded first that she draw $1,000 from her personal bank account to cover the attorney's fee for drawing up a legal agreement.

She agreed, went to her bank, drew out $1,000 in cash, gave it to the gentleman, and never saw the man or her half of the $10,000 again.

Unfortunately, incidents such as these are on the increase with fast-talking con men prowling the street corners looking for a victim.

About the only real safeguard we have against crimes of this type is awareness — awareness of the kinds of tactics used to deceive and eventually defraud the victims.

I trust and pray that next July Fourth will still find America free, and more real patriotism evident in Belle Glade. It means a lot to me to be an American and I am not ashamed to say so. Most of us have seen the bumper stickers...why not heed it.

AMERICA: Love it or leave it.

Sincerely,

BROWN RICE: NATURALLY DELICIOUS

Brown rice is a food unfamiliar to your family, you may wish to serve it soon in an elegant main dish. Brown rice looks and tastes distinctly different from white rice. It has a slightly nutty flavor and a moderately chewy texture. When it's cooked it lightens to the color of cooked oatmeal.

Unlike regular or milled white rice, brown rice is not highly processed. Only the inedible hulls have been removed, leaving it in a whole and natural form with a brown coating of bran.

Delicious served in its simplest form with butter or margarine, brown rice also has many versatile recipes. Recipes for entrees, side dishes and desserts using brown rice are available in booklet form by sending 25 cents and your name and address to: Riviana Food Products, Dept. SD, Houston, Texas 77001. THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH
AND REHABILITATIVE SERVICES

Emergency Medical Services in Rural Florida

The need for Emergency Medical Services (EMS) in Florida has been recognized for some time and is especially critical in rural Florida where the possibility of dying enroute to a hospital from an automobile accident is about four times greater than in urban areas. The reasons for this higher risk rate are the greater distances, lack of trained personnel and lack of properly equipped ambulances.

But all this is changing in Florida. In 1973, the state legislature passed the EMS Act establishing mandatory training requirements for ambulance personnel, ambulance design and equipment specifications. Since the passage of this law there have been vast improvements made in rural EMS programs. Although the distances still remain the same, the well trained personnel and the modernized equipment are rapidly reducing death rates from accidents, especially in rural areas.

To stimulate this improvement of EMS systems in Florida, the State of Florida has made available grant funds to counties on a 50-50 matching basis. Seventy percent of this grant money has been awarded to counties with populations of less than 50,000. Some of the counties which have received these funds are Jackson, Hendry, Glades, Suwannee, Santa Rosa, Okeechobee, bee, Highlands, Flagler and Baker.

A Mobile Ambulance Demonstration & Training Team (MADTT), which began in 1974 under the sponsorship of the Florida HRS Health Program Office, the Florida Regional Medical Program, and the Governor's Highway Safety Program, has played a critical role in EMS improvement throughout Florida.

The MADTT consists of an approved emergency vehicle manned by well trained personnel, which is made available to any county for a period of up to six weeks, upon request from the County Commission.

While in a county, the MADTT actually makes emergency runs with county ambulance personnel and conducts various training programs. The most widely requested training for county personnel is in the application of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and extrication, both emergency procedures often necessary to keep accident victims alive.

The MADTT has also been made available to be used by counties when the local ambulance service has gone out-of-business. The most recent use was in Marion County. This unit demonstrates to the county what an EMS system should do and the special need for quality EMS in rural Florida. (AFNS)

| 3 cups water                              | 1 cup uncooked Rice Brand natural brown rice |
| 2 packets MBT instant beef flavored broth | 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms, about 4        |
| 2 tsp. parsley flakes                     | 1/4 cup chopped green onion                  |
| 1 tsp. salt                               | 2 tbsp. butter or margarine                  |
| 1/2 tsp. marjoram leaves                  | 2 tbsp. cream sherry                         |
| 1/8 tsp. garlic powder                    |  |
| 1/8 tsp. black pepper                     |  |

In heavy 3-quart saucepan, bring to boil the water, instant beef broth, parsley, salt, marjoram, garlic powder, and pepper. Stir in the rice. Cover, lower the heat, and simmer 45 minutes or until all the water is absorbed. During the last 5 minutes, saute the mushrooms and onion in butter or margarine until tender. Mix in the sherry. Stir this mushroom mixture into the rice and mix well. Makes 6 (about 2/3 cup each) servings.

The right family values help give boys and girls confidence in their own self-worth and help them resist the influence of the wrong kind of friends.

One way to discourage irresponsible among adolescents is to encourage responsibility among adults.

Social Chatter

By Maude Vereen

I wonder just how many persons had the same thought as I did on Sunday, July 4. As you watched the television program, how we have been conditioned to religious services and yet on the anniversary of the founding of the Good Old U.S.A., we were taught that it was founded on prayer and faith and yet all church services were surmounted by the pious and etc. No wonder we are thinking, "Just where are we heading, America?" One hundred years ago, France gave America a gift which was inscribed with these words: Not like the brazen giant of Greek fame, With conquering limbs astride from land to land, Here at our sea-washed sunset gates shall stand A mighty woman with a torch whose flame Is the imprisoned lightning, and her name, Mother of Exiles

From her bosom-hand, Glows world-wide welcome; Her mild eyes command the air-bringed Harbors that Twin Cities frame, "Keep ancient Lands, your storied Pomps!" Cries she with silent lips. Give me Your Tired, your Poor, your huddled Masses Yearning to breathe free, The wretched refuse of your teeming shore

"Send these, the Homeless, Tempest-tost to me, "I lift my lamp beside the Golden Door."

We should ponder these immortal words spoken long ago, and reflect upon the condition of this country that is supposed to be The Land of the Free and Home of the Brave.

No matter how often we talk about safety in the water, maybe some signs should be posted around the lake stating, "No Swimming."

We regret that two more young people lost their lives during a family outing. No swimming unless a life guard is on duty.

Miss Herda Thaw of Newton, Kansas is spending her vacation in the West Palm Beach area. She was the weekend guest of Miss Valerie Vereen.

Darold Highsmith of the Belle Glade Police Division is back after a much needed vacation.

The York family of Bryant spent the Fourth of July at the Campsite at Lake Buena Vista. Mrs. York said the boys really enjoyed themselves at the new swimming site.

The members of the Belle Glade Police Department received sad news Tuesday that one of the former employees was killed in the line of duty. Officer Walter Ince, who spent several years on the Belle Glade force, had not been on the Lake City Police force too long when he died Tuesday morning. A number of local officers went to Lake City for the funeral.

Mrs. Eudell Vereen-Thomson is home from her stay in Glades General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmual Garrett and daughter attended the bowling tournament in Tampa.

Herman Williams, the father of Anthony Williams, flew to Newburyport, Mass. Saturday to attend Anthony's wedding to Miss Jane Frances Russell of that city. He informed us that the wedding was beautiful and on time. He enjoyed his short stay with his son. After the honeymoon, Anthony will report to the Buffalo Bill camp for practice.

The Florida Association of Women's Club held its 68th session June 19-23 at the Robert Meyers Hotel in Jacksonville. One of the delegates to attend the meeting from this city was Mrs. Gladys Tucker, representing the Violette Club of Belle Glade. The Association of Girls' Clubs also held their session along with the women. Mrs. Tucker said the session was very well attended with clubs all over the state of Florida. Other clubs represented from Belle Glade are the Belle Glade and the Belle Glade Community Club and the Women's Club.

The theme was "Our Nation a Fulfilling Challenge to the Black Woman."

Mrs. Juanita Hannah of Jacksonville motored here to spend the holiday weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Diane Maussard, the wife of Patman Maussard, of the Belle Glade Police Department. Any was very thrilled to have the attention of her grand mother.

Thought: Are you your "brother's keeper" in traffic? If so, your Christianity will be showing. ## Duda wins first game, 13-2, Wallis takes league lead

A Duda and Sons hammered out 13-2 victory over Dixie Fried Chicken for their first win and Wallis Pharmacy took the lead by rolling over Glades Sugar 14-2 and Timesaver 17-2 in the Glades Women's Softball League's third week of action.

The royal blue and white players of Dixie Fried Chicken made their only three runs in the first inning, with Kathy Moore leading off with a single and the first of the runs, as Jenny Hall and Irma Vasquez followed suit.

The second inning was a standoff between Dixie Fried and A. Duda and Sons, but the third inning proved a little more exciting when Becky Rhodes and Judy Clayton rounded the bases to shorten Dixie Fried's lead to one run. The fourth was again a standoff and Duda went ahead in the fifth by one run when Sharon Clayton and Cindy Gummere scored, making it four to three. The tight ball game was blown to bits in the fifth when the Duda players took advantage of errors and began knocking singles to bring in nine more runs, making the final score 13 to three.

The second game of the evening found the top two teams trying to retain their hold in the standings and Wallis Pharmacy came out on top of a lopsided victory.

Glades Sugar struck first when Sam Rivers walloped a long fly into centerfield for a clean double and then scored. Wallis came back in the bottom of the inning to go ahead by one run when leadoff batters Barbara Morgan and Karen Hansford crossed the plate to keep it a close ball game. First baseman Cynthia Simonds speared a fly in back of first base and ended the threat as Wallis left runners stranded on first and third.

The lead was widened three in the bottom of the second inning, when Jayne Meadows and Denise Morgan rounded the bases, after the Glades Sugar batters were held to three consecutive outs. Sally Carter whacked a two-base hit in the third, as four more runs came in, and after that it was downhill as Wallis Pharmacy added six in the next three innings and held Glades Sugar to no runs past first base for the fourth win of the season.

The Glades Sugar players took their frustration out on A. Duda and Sons Thursday, July 1 in Canal Point, as the team broke loose in the fourth inning for 10 runs, every batter but one scoring in that inning.

It was well-played defensive game, with neither team getting a runner to third base, until the fourth inning when Duda opened the scoring with three runs by Diane Duda and sisters Sharon and Judy Clayton. Shortstopper Lisa Smith juggled a double for two of the runs.

Peggy Chavis started it off in the bottom of the inning for Glades Sugar as she hit a single and paved the way for Wanda Paul, Shelly Goodgood, Linda Anderson, Linda Mims, Sandra Rives, Cynthia Simonds, Donna Garcia, and Rose Goodbrod, who all scored. The team, batted around, with Peggy Chavis making two of the runs in that inning. Rose Goodbrod knocked a double to keep the team going.

After that one inning, both teams settled down and played defensive ball, with neither team threatening offensively, making the final score 10 to three. Glades Sugar's third victory of the season.

In the second game, Wallis Pharmacy dominated the action as the players scored runs in every inning but one, while holding Timesaver to one run in the second inning when Mary Lou Stevens made a hit to right field and then crossed the plate on Terry Thomas' single. Timesaver's other runs came in the fourth inning when Michelle Jordan scored on Ann Thiippen's single.

Those making multi-base hits for Wallis Pharmacy were Karen Hansford, Barbara Mole and Annette Davis. Others who scored were Barbara Morgan, Sally Carter, Rhonda Cox, Frances McLeod and Bonnie Pike to make a total of 17 runs.

After three weeks of action for the Women's Softball League the standings are Wallis Pharmacy, four wins and no losses; Glades Sugar, three wins and two losses; Timesaver, two wins and three losses; Dixie Fried Chicken, one win and three losses; A. Duda and Sons, one win and four losses.

The Lions Club of Ft. Myers Beach put on a spectacular display of fireworks and it was a thrill to sit and watch and be a part of the 200 year anniversary of the birth of America. All that stuff we learned in American History flooded back and began to make sense, making me proud to be an American.

In fact I haven't finished. The Lions Club of Ft. Myers Beach put on a spectacular display of fireworks and it was a thrill to sit and watch and be a part of the 200 year anniversary of the birth of America. All that stuff we learned in American History flooded back and began to make sense, making me proud to be an American.

There were quite a few cars, trucks, campers, etc. at the site of the fireworks and the spectators were treated to a lounge chair and mulled something about "Washington." Guess he thought the only way to celebrate the nation's birthday was to go to Washington D. C. the capital. Don't ever tell me a kid doesn't learn anything from television. After telling him we could celebrate just as well at the beach as in Washington, he was satisfied and we don't want to lose it and couldn't wait until the fireworks began that night and he had his celebration, cake and all. That's one of the best things about a holiday event - to watch a child's eyes as the Glades fireworks illuminate the sky, see gifts under a brightly lit Christmas tree or even as he watches Grandmother carve a turkey for Thanksgiving.

Now that the big celebration has taken place, I wonder what will be an encore?

For some of you who are wondering about the whereabouts of the Glades Little League, the girls are still around. There was a change of schedule because of the number of girls who will be vacationing this month. Originally, we had planned to begin the season in June but because of vacations, it will start on Saturday, July 31 and last through Saturday August 28. As of now there are still four teams and there are also openings for anyone girls interested, as well as coaches. But better hurry, we are almost filled up!

I would like to thank everyone who has helped to get this league going and it everything's a success, there will be one next year with a little more organization. Hopefully, we will be able to play at a different time of the year so vacations won't interfere. Come on out and support girls' softball, we're getting a good thing going and we don't want to lose it.

It was a time to remember. They day everyone has been waiting and preparing for in the past year or so finally arrived. Fireworks and all. As in the past several years, the family spent the weekend at the beach along with quite a few other families from the Glades in Ft. Myers, and it was succession of Pop! Boom! Boom! from the time we got there and was still going on as we drove out of the parking lot.

Even some of the stores got into the spirit this year and began selling some "fireworks," not the kind that make noise but they did have some pretty patterns of sparks. I had bought several dollars worth and was going to shoot the whole works but between the breeze which constantly frustrated my attempts with matches and these mosquitoes who were apparently celebrating the Fourth by biting anything and anyone in sight, I called it quits after a few - thank goodness they were tired and did put up a fuss. When we got back to the room I counted 13 mosquito bites on one leg. Now if anyone asks me how I celebrated the holiday I can tell them I spent my "think counting" mosquito bites in fact I haven't finished.

Holiday weekend a good one for fishing in the glades area

The weather and the fish cooperated to make the good fishing in the Belle Glade area over the holiday weekend according to Nan Corbin of Slim's fish camp.

S.H. Geiger of West Palm Beach and Charles Doherty and son Mike of Mulberry, brought in 50 shellcrackers on Saturday with one going two pounds.

Willie Giles of West Palm Beach reported 11 bass on plastic worms and Devils Horse plugs on Saturday.

Jeanne Roper of West Palm Beach reported a real case of beginner's luck on Saturday when she weighed in her 6'1 pound bass. It was the first time Mrs. Roper had ever been fishing. Mr. Roper, an avid fisherman, complained he didn't get a bite.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barr of Hollywood returned again this week to try for speckled perch. They reported 135 in two days fishing with minnows.

GAME AND FRESH WATER FISH COMMISSION

This column was created by a guy named Gary Sifton of the National Shooting Sports Foundation, and while I have made a few minor changes to make it apply to the Sunshine State and duck shooting rather than goose hunting, the basic message should be included in the book of all hunters regardless of their location.

We're in the off-season now, the time when hunters look to the future and the past and wish for better days. Sure, fox and raccoon hunting seasons are still open, but, for most hunters in most areas, hunting is for now a matter of memory and imagination. It's a good time to think about what we do and how we do it, for our conduct and the attitude of the public toward us because of it may well play an important role in the future of hunting.

When a fellow picks up his trusty gun and heads for the hunting grounds, he is obliged to obey two kinds of law. One is written law that governs seasons, bag limits and hunting methods. But abiding by the written law is not enough. It's the code of honor that the hunter imposes on himself that determines the quality of the hunt. Make no mistake; a man can be licensed and law-abiding, and still never be a sportsman.

For example, the guy who lets fly at a deer that may be out of range is legal, but he sure isn't ethical. Again, the hunter who bangs away at ducks up in the stratosphere is within the written law all right but way out of bounds by any honorable standard. In both these cases, the odds against a clean kill is the first obligation of anyone who looks at game over a gun barrel.

The ethical hunter understands that he will receive from the hunt in direct proportion to his investment of care, knowledge and respect. He may not fill his limit, but he knows that one bird or animal taken fairly and honorably is better than many brought to bag unfairly. He knows that how he hunts is more important than how much game he shoots.

And while the nonhunting public may never approve entirely of even the ethical hunter, the public is at least likely to tolerate him. The irresponsible and the outlaw are no longer tolerated by the public, and as long as they remain a part of the hunting scene, we will all suffer by association.

Conservation laws and hunting ethics are two sides of the same coin. We have known for a long time that, without regard to hunting and conservation, hunting would disappear. We know now that without dedication to the unwritten laws, to the ethics of the sport, hunting will just as surely suffer.

D'ATELINE HISTORY

by Jerome Turk & Wm. D. Ellis
PHILADELPHIA, July 3, 1776—During a session punctuated with political drama inside and lightning and thunder outside, delegates to the Continental Congress yesterday cast votes of 12 out of 13 colonies in favor of independence from England. New York abstained.

"Yesterday, the greatest question was decided, which ever was debated in America and a greater, perhaps, never was nor will be decided among men," John Adams of Massachusetts has written in a letter to his wife, Abigail, this morning.

"The second day of July, 1776," Adams writes, "will be the most memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary Festival."

"It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, bells, bonfires, from one end of this continent, to the other, from this time forward, forevermore."

More than any other delegate, Adams was responsible for the nearly unanimous approval of the resolution for independence first introduced June 7 by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia. The stocky lawyer argued mightily against moderates when sharp debate on the resolution was resumed two days ago in the oven-like heat of the State House Assembly Room.

Testily, Adams discounts the debates of July 1 as "an idle mispense of time, for nothing was said but what had been repeated and hackneyed in that room before, a hundred times, for six months past." Thomas Jefferson of Virginia disagrees with Adams' evaluation of his own efforts, insisting that the Massachusetts man "came out occasionally with a power of thought and expression that moved us from our seats."

Tall, spare John Dickinson, once considered a radical for his "Letters from a Farmer in Pennsylvania" speaking out against British oppression, led the opponents of independence. It would, said the Pennsylvania delegate, be "like destroying our house in winter...before we have got another shelter."

Dickinson acknowledged that his position is unpopular. "My conduct this day I expect will give the finishing blow to my popularity. Yet I had rather forfeit popularity forever than vote away the blood and happiness of my country."

Only nine colonies approved the independence resolution on July 1. New York abstained. South Carolina opposed it. The two Delaware delegates present in Philadelphia were divided for and against. The seven men from Pennsylvania cast four votes in favor of independence, three against. Then Edward Rutledge of South Carolina proposed another vote be taken yesterday.

South Carolina switched to the affirmative. Delegate Caesar Rodney made a dramatic 80-mile horseback ride all night through a thunderstorm to break the Delaware tie in favor of independence. John Dickinson and Robert Morris purposely absented themselves so that their delegations could vote three to two and align Pennsylvania with the majority.

Today the delegates are poring over a Declaration of Independence drafted by the 33-year-old Jefferson. It is one thing to vote a country free. It is another to explain why to the world. The delegates are reportedly weighing every word and phrase as Jefferson winces at the process, which, mercifully, may be completed by tomorrow.

Tomorrow, also, the United Colonies will have a new name which appears at the top of Jefferson's document: "A Declaration by the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA in General Congress assembled."

But yesterday, according to Mr. John Adams, will be most memorable in the history of America. And July 2 will be commemorated forevermore as the "great anniversary Festival."

Ag committee set up to study pest eradication

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 2, 1976—Senate President Dempsey Barron Friday named a special Senate agricultural advisory committee to study ways to finance programs for the eradication of serious animal and plant pests and disease in Florida.

Sen. Curtis Peterson, D-Eaton Park, was named chairman of the advisory group. He has scheduled a meeting in Homestead July 13 at 8:30 a.m. at the agriculture center. Other meetings will be held elsewhere at a later date.

Named to the special committee were four members of the Senate standing committee on agriculture and four agricultural industry leaders in the lower east coast region. Senate members are: D. Robert Graham of Miami, Richard Renick of Miami, Philip D. Lewis of West Palm Beach, all Democrats, and Republican Chester Stoenberg of Fort Lauderdale.

Industry people appointed are: Kenneth Graves of Homestead, a potato grower and secretary-treasurer of the Dade County Farm Bureau; John Frederick Jr., Homestead, a lime and avocado grower; and Roy (Butler) Rood of Jupiter, a nurseryman.

Members of the public and legislators from the lower east coast region are invited to participate in the hearing to delve into the feasibility of taxing each agriculture commodity on a per unit or per dollar sales value as the produce reaches a primary processing plant or broker. The revenue from the tax would be used for emergency pest control but only in the absence of state general revenue funds. Other methods of generating emergency funds will be explored.

At the Homestead hearing, the advisory committee will receive updated information on the current research and control programs for lethal yellowing of palm trees and the citrus blackfly infestation being conducted by the Florida Department of Agriculture, University of Florida Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, and USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Training school scheduled

Pesticide applicator training schools will be offered Aug. 31 through Sept. 2 and Sept. 14 through 23 by the Florida Cooperative Extension Service in the library room at the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade.

Extension Agent John H. Causey said the schools are being offered to farmers and growers. Causey said these farmers and growers must be certified as private pesticide applicators in order to use pesticides.

He said the farmers and growers, to be certified, must attend the school and take an examination.

TAX CENTS

Q) My condominium apartment is deeded in my name and I now get a household and widow's exemption. I would like to devd my property to myself and upon death, to my survivors (children). Will this effect my exemptions?

A) You can devd your property to your children and retain a "Life Estate" for yourself without losing your homestead benefits. This should not be confused with deeding the property to yourself and your children with right of survivorship. In this case you would only be entitled to a percentage of your homestead benefits. In either case you have lost your right to sell your property unless your children are willing to join in this sale.

SUGAR

Blame it on soybeans, the drought in western Europe, the charts or anything else, but sugar has once again broken out on the upside and it looks as good or better than it did the last time it broke out on the upside and then went right back down again. Like the boy who cried wolf—some day it is going to mean business. For once there was heavy trade buying late in the day, instead of the usual trade selling, and the market finished strong. Reports of civil unrest in Peru and a state of emergency for 30 days provided the final psychological spark. There rumors of additional sales pending by the Dominican Republic but these were denied by a major trade house. In the final analysis when the market is ready to move and the fundamentals are strong it will not fear sales from first hand any more than the soybean market fears sales from Brazil whereas just a short time ago bean traders were pessimistic, pointing to the overall surplus and the fear of competition from foreign sellers. The EEO offered 15,000 tons two days ago and reportedly offered to sell up to 150,000 tons of whites as they now consumption at 9.3 mill tons vs 9.48 previously, leaving 150,000 tons for sale and another 30,000 tons which will be kept as a safety margin. Two commission houses put out buy recommendations yesterday. The continuing European drought also remains in the background. Good market action today would be a 20 to 30 pt dip followed by another surge up.

ORANGE JUICE

Excellent growing conditions in Florida orange areas, evidence of mounting stocks of unsold concentrate, and the current seasonally low consuming period, bespeak little promise for a price recovery over the near term.

Moreover, the potential for movement stimulation in the wake of the recent price drop was substantially dented by the fact that the outs were made in list quotations themselves, rather than in the form of a time-limited promotional deal. Thus, distributors will have less incentive to add to inventories for the purpose of concentrated consumer promotional events.

Although recent sharp price declines would appear to have substantially discounted the understated processors' stock statistics, we would maintain a neutral attitude pending the final determination of the extent of the upcoming inventory additions.

SOYBEAN COMPLEX

The USDA raised its estimate of the total use of soybeans this season by a further 30 million bushels, lowering its forecast of end-of-season stocks this August 31 to 200 million bushels from 230 million previous forecast two weeks ago and compared with 185 million bushels a year earlier. May bean crushings, at a record 80 million bushels, also helped market sentiment and after November reared down to the $6.25 per bushel area prices vaulted up to challenge contract highs. Domestic disappearance of soybean meal and oil has been expanding rapidly. Domestic use of soybean meal is estimated at 13.9 million tons compared to 11.3 in 1974-75. Domestic use of soybean oil is placed at 7.8 billion pounds compared to 6.5 billion last year. Meal exports may reach 4.5 million tons for 1975-76 compared with 3.9 million last season, while soybean oil exports are estimated at 90 million pounds, about 100 million below last year. With planting near completion, farmers have reseeded some abandoned cotton fields with soybeans and also have turned to soybeans following the small grain harvest. Soybean production is forecast at 1.521 billion bushels or 41.4 million tons by the USDA. With soybean demand likely to exceed output, a further drawdown in carryover stocks on Sept. 1, 1977 is likely, and stocks are expected to drop to about 100 million bushels, or less than one month's current requirement for crush and export. These USDA figures might be higher than many trade estimates and the bull market thus has a firm fundamental basis. We recently suggested purposes in November, where able at 6.20, as a supplement to our original bullish appraisal in the 4.90 to 4.93 area some time ago.

CORN

An increased corn acreage survey made buyers sensitive to prices since the potential for a crop of close to 6.4 billion bushels (or more) would not support $3 per bushel corn. USDA raised its 1976-77 corn export estimate 100 million bushels to 1.35 billion, or less than 150 million, due to the reduced crop prospects in Western Europe and USSR. Increased foreign demand isn't expected to slow projected domestic feed use. Corn used for feed in 1976-77 may total 4.115 billion bushels. Corn fed to U.S. livestock and poultry in April and May was about one-fifth more than fed a year earlier and means that feeding the first eight months of the 1975-76 marketing year was up 10 percent. June-September feeding is expected to be up sharply since a 16 per cent larger spring pig crop will be finished for market. We still feel that the long side of old crop corn has some merit and we should go long September around $20 1/4 with stops at $27 1/4.

"Swimming Hole"

One of the greatest pleasures of being a boy is being able to find a good "swimming hole". Clear, cool, clean water in a natural environment, however, is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Pollution from factory wastes, trash and litter left behind by unthinking citizens, slowly but surely ruin our beautiful rivers and streams. In addition to depriving our young sons the pleasures of the "old swimming hole", this contamination of our water will also deprive us of clear, clean water to drink. We must, individually, make constant efforts to keep our lakes, rivers and streams free of trash, litter, and all that would make them unfit for use by boys, men or even animals.

Our precious heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is alive today as it was when written for the ages in the Declaration of Independence. It stands for all the world to see and all Americans to cherish. And as we may disagree as to the methods, we should not disagree as to the goal of preserving the greatest commonwealth, namely the world as we know it.

Our flag is a symbol, not of wealth, but of history, the history and wisdom willing to live and die for it. Should the willingness to preserve more of the knowledge that are our common heritage be an Americanism?

The Secret That Was

When someone shares a secret, it's on as way to becoming no secret at all. And yet it doesn't cease to be a secret until you have shared it.

When Jesus preached in the wilderness, hundreds came miles to hear Him. They wanted to share His secret . . . the secret of God . . . the secret of Man and God.

So right there in the wilderness, it was on its way to becoming no secret at all. Except that, even today, not everyone has shared it.

Academically every intelligent person knows what Christianity is all about. But each Sunday all over this world someone is finding in church a new strength, a new purpose, a new faith. For the heart of Christ's message brings a human soul into harmony with a mighty and loving God . . . whose power gives our lives direction . . . whose concern gives our lives meaning.

The secret that was still a secret, until YOU share it too.

FAMILIES STAY TOGETHER

Who Pray Together — You Need His Church

A PUBLIC SERVICE MESSAGE PRESENTED BY
FLORIDA ORGANIZED CRIME CONTROL COUNCIL
P.O. Box 1489 Tallahassee 32302

ORGANIZED CRIME THE GREAT AMERICAN SCHEME MACHINE.

Then, when the victim can't pay, his assets and his business are absorbed to further the profits of the organized crime scheme machine.

Organized crime schemes produce maximum profits at a minimum risk. Loansharking, for example, is the lending of money to financially distressed individuals or businessmen at exorbitant interest rates. It's a major source of income for organized crime.

The scheme is to get the victim involved. Charge illegal interest. Intimidate with threats of violence.

Organized crime is a multi-billion dollar illegal enterprise that pays no taxes. Its cost in terms of dollars and human agony is a burden on every citizen of Florida.

The scheme machine depends upon you for maintenance. Don't be a willing participant. Organized crime. It hurts you.

PBJC sets registration

The deadline for application and registration for the Fall Term for the Glades

Center of Palm Beach Junior College is Aug. 13. Students may make applications for admission and or register for classes at the Army Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 12 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., according to Mary Orsenigo, of the registrar's office. Classes will begin Aug. 17. Students registering after the Aug. 13 deadline must pay a late fee of $5 per course.

The Glades Center will hold an orientation for new students August 10 at 9 a.m. in the Army.

The Twelfth Grade Placement Test will be given Wednesday, July 21 at 7:45 a.m. Students wishing to take the test should notify the guidance office at the Glades Center.

Further questions may be directed to the Registrar's Office, 996-3055.

The deadline for making applications of admission to the Lake Worth campus of Palm Beach Junior College as a day student in the Fall Term is July 21 at 3 p.m., according to Charles G. Graham, registrar.

In order to avoid a last minute rush, students are advised to complete their applications procedures as early as possible.

The registrar's office on that campus is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

It's Only Your MONEY

"Beware of Loan Sharks" by GERALD LEWIS, Compiler of Florida

Loan sharks generally prey on desperate, innocent and often uninformed people who need money in a hurry and are unable to get it from a licensed lender.

The shark's key business practice is to charge usurious rates for money and then threaten punishment if the repayment is not on schedule.

Despite the fact that the Truth in Lending Law forbids the collecting of debts by violent means, loan sharking continues to be a multi-billion dollar business.

Typically a loan shark will charge anywhere from 500 to 2600 per cent annual interest rate. For example, the individual may agree to loan you $10.00, then five to seven days later he or she would demand $13.00 to $15.00 in repayment.

Some other characteristics which make a loan shark easy to spot include:

(1) Failure to display his or her state license prominently.

(2) Dating a loan prior to the time you receive the money.

(3) Asking you to sign the papers before the figures are filled in.

(4) Requiring more than one note for a loan.

If you should encounter such a business person, report it to your local State Attorney's office or the State Comptroller immediately. Loan sharking is a crime, both civilly and criminally. (AFNS)

State Representative Tom Lewis announces he will run for re-election

State Rep. Tom Lewis (R-North Palm Beach) announced last week his intention to seek re-election to the House seat he currently holds, District 83. Lewis said, "I am asking re-election, 'all I ask is that my constituents look at my record. I believe that I have been their effective voice in Tallahassee. Although I have not concentrated on one specific issue, I have concentrated on people legislation," Lewis said, "my greatest concern is what affects the average citizen the most."

"My office has always been ready to assist my constituents in every way," Lewis said, "as a fulltime legislator I wanted to be available, and I think I have been."

"One of my greatest concerns," said the North Palm Beach legislator, "is that we have too much government. Government which often operates without the consent or knowledge of the people. We need legislation by, and for, the people, so we can have effective government by the people. I will continue to work with the people, and, thusly, for the people."

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Williams (Mrs. Williams is the former Patty Stevenson) announced this week the birth of twin sons, John Craig Jr. and Steven Patrick, Monday at Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams are also the parents of Heather Jo, 2.

Mrs. Marie Williams of 332 N.W. Ninth St. and Mrs. Mary A. Stevenson of 636

S.E. First St., both in Belle Glade, are the grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gentry of Fry, Kan., announced this week the birth of a Bicentennial baby boy born July 4. William Travis Gentry, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith of Belle Glade, weighed 9 pounds, 5 ounces at birth.

His paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gentry of Indrio, Cal.

Girl Scouts to send poor girls to Camp Welaka this summer

Ninety underprivileged girls, ages 7-13, are going to be enjoying a week of Resident Camp at Girl Scout Camp-Welaka August 8-14 1976, thanks to the efforts of Palm Beach Girl Scout Council Senior Girl Scouts.

Palm Beach County Community Foundation, under the able direction of Mr. Jesse Newman, Executive Director donated $1,500 to the girls to help them with their $3,700 budget it will take to operate the camp. The Senior Girl Scouts are hard at work raising the balance of the money to finish this project.

The Senior Girl Scouts will be volunteer staff for the camp, with some adult supervision. It will be a learning experience for the Girl Scouts as well as a rewarding experience for ninety girls who otherwise would not be able to attend a camp.

ON THE CONSUMER'S SIDE

QUESTION: A man came to my home recently soliciting contributions for a charitable organization that claimed to find jobs for people who are handicapped. It sounded like a worthwhile reason for giving so I gave a dollar. While this wasn't a great amount, I'm now having some doubts as to its authenticity. How can consumers tell if an organization is legitimate?

ANSWER: Americans are a charitable people, and this is to our credit. In some instances, however, our charitable nature are taken advantage of by those who solicit for phony charities in order to enrich themselves. The law offers consumers some protection against such operators, but individual caution remains essential.

"NEVER contribute to a charity you know nothing about," NEVER contribute without having the solicitor show identification for both himself and the charity. Check local ordinances for home solicitations and sales. In most areas permits are required.

"NEVER allow yourself to be pressured into making a contribution."

"DON'T feel that you have to make the contribution on the spot; ask for literature about the charity and use this to check on its authenticity."

"DON'T be fooled by names; very often a crooked charity will have a most impressive sounding name."

"DON'T give merely because of thinking hard luck stories told by solicitors. Find out how the charity benefits those for whom it is collecting funds."

If you have any doubts about the authenticity of a charity or questions about its collection methods, you may wish to contact the office of the Secretary of State. By law, all charitable organizations that solicit funds must be registered.

QUESTION: Will there be enough canned lids to meet the demand this year?

ANSWER: According to the USDA, there will be plenty of canned lids for home canners this year. Supplies are up all over the country, and providing your garden cooperates, there should be an abundance of lids.

Glades area senior citizens will have a chance to pick up identification cards for reduced fares on county buses once each in Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee in the month of July.

The identification cards allow persons over 60 years of age to ride the bus for 15 cents, after paying an initial one-time fee of one dollar.

The dollar buys a laminated card with a picture and the county expects to handle an estimated 125,000 riders.

During an interim period, until ID cards are obtained, eligible persons may ride county buses at the reduced rate by showing proof of age to drivers. Transportation officials urged those eligible to obtain ID cards as soon as possible, however.

Those eligible persons may apply July 13, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Belle Glade at the Glades Office Building on US441 north of town.

They can apply on July 21 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the City Hall in South Bay and the same time at the Community Building at 899 Padgett Circle in Pahokee.
